Hail to our Alma

Mater

. . . dear is her name

*And there shall be no other to surpass her fame.
Hers is the hand that guides us day after day
And She will stand beside us, As we go on our way.
May blessings be upon Her, Shepherd of youth;
She holds the seat of honor, In the hall of truth.
Memories of Her shall never fade from our hearts,
And we will praise Her ever, For the love She imparts.
Sing every voice together, Let echoes rise,
Hail to our Alma Mater, Shout to the skies.
Holding the torch of wisdom, She leads the way
Clasping the hand of freedom, As She marches along.*

KENTUCKY STATE COLLEGE

FOREWORD

Of all the pleasant and enjoyable memories we cherish, those of college days are perhaps the best. The school year 1964-65 was a memorable year for faculty, staff, and students of Kentucky State College. It had its long hours of pleasure . . . and its fleeting moments of sadness. High above the stately monuments of the past and the steel and concrete that form the foundations for those of the future, towers the hopes, the dreams, and the aspirations of all who come here to learn. It is the hope of the THOROBRED staff that as you leaf through these pages, some activity portrayed will awaken joyous memories. Kentucky State College continues the task of searching, growing, gaining, and evolving into an institution totally capable of developing men and women for the world of tomorrow. This, then, is your ALMA MATER.

Dedication

A free society will prosper in direct relation to the ability of its citizens to think independently and critically, to grow in knowledge and wisdom, and to accept with a mature sense of responsibility positions of trust in education, and in civic, national and international affairs. Citizens of this character can only be developed through education which continues throughout adult life. This surely means a lifetime of learning. Such has been the philosophy and attitude of Professor George De Wey Wilson who retires from a teaching career that spans forty-two years. Kindly in his manner and scholarly in his approach, Dr. Wilson exemplifies the highest and best within the teaching profession. As a teacher, he is scientist and artist. He gets things done. He acts. He decides. He takes responsibility. Students throughout the land have benefited from his guidance and wise counsel. All Kentuckians wish him well. As an expression of our appreciation for his long years of fruitful service to Kentucky State College, we dedicate the 1965 THOROBRED to this kindly man.

Our Campus

High atop a beautiful hill overlooking the capitol city of Frankfort stands Kentucky State College, spread over 220 acres of rolling land generously studded with evergreen and deciduous shade trees. For seventy-eight years, our ALMA MATER—second oldest among the six state-supported institutions of higher learning in the Commonwealth—has been a growing, improving and productive educational institution. With a highly competent faculty, a multi-million-dollar building program, and a growing and enthusiastic student body, Kentucky State College provides an excellent setting for growth and development.

Waiting to register

Registration and Orientation

Registration and Orientation was a time for adjustment, for getting acquainted, and for choosing courses of study. After standing in lines, thumbing through catalogues and schedules, getting programs signed, and paying bills, we finally made it and were ready for the beginning of another school year.

There were always lines

Members of the Freshman Class who received Kentucky State College Scholarships

And after registration, dinner on the President's lawn for all new students

And still waiting

A thorough physical examination for all students

Selecting the right courses

TESTING AND COUNSELING

All were smiles . . . until the tests began

. . . And then we were serious

We were given help . . . when needed

Then came the counseling

We took tests of mental ability, aptitude, achievement and interests in order to discover special abilities that might be cultivated to the highest potential. The counseling focused attention on curricular matters, study and health habits, emotional and social adjustments, budgeting of time and money, extra-class activities, and on vocational choices and after-college adjustment to life.

... Sometimes about fraternity and sorority affairs

... And on an informal basis

ACADEMICS

In achieving these ends, the College seeks to prepare its students to think critically, to express themselves creatively, to make independent and rational judgments, and to practice adherence to standards of moral rectitude.

Problem solving provides resourceful experiences for industrial pursuits

ACADEMICS

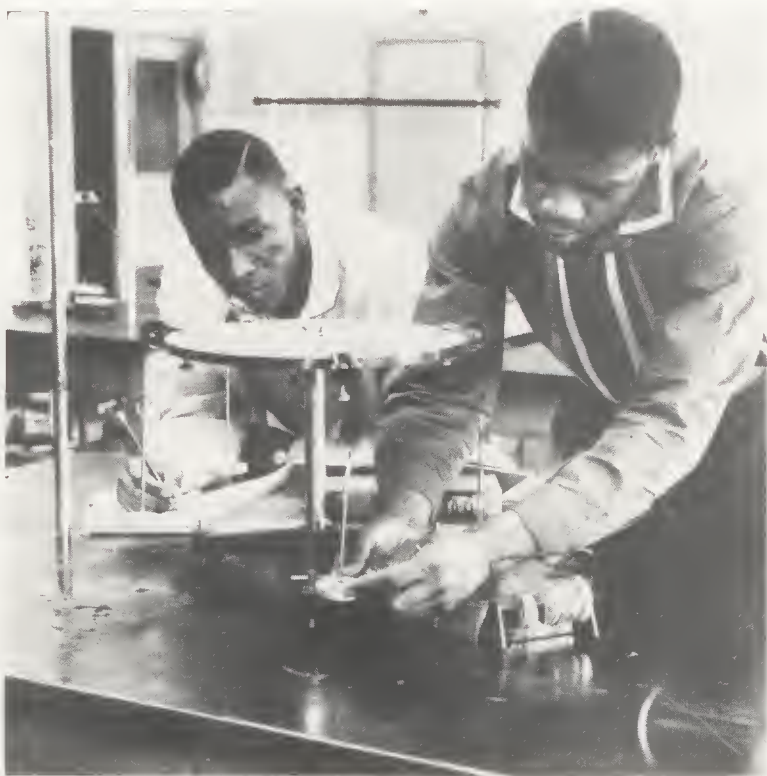

To achieve the College objectives, courses of study are provided in the following areas: Business and Economics, Health and Physical Education, Home Economics, Industrial Arts, Romance Languages, Education and Psychology, Music, the Biological and Physical Sciences, the Social Sciences, and Secretarial Studies. These courses of study are offered in the regular four-year degree program, the two-year community-college program, and the late afternoon-evening program.

Music at Kentucky State College

It was a year filled with music. New organizations were formed to provide outlets for talent and skill. New sounds were heard from a revitalized marching band. Such groups appeared among the departmental students as the Phrygian String Quartet, the Hypomixolydian Concert Trio, and the Hypodorian Brass Ensemble. The Concert Choir gave satisfying performances throughout the Commonwealth and in many major cities of the country. Electronic sounds were heard. The students grew in their understanding of and appreciation for good music.

RELIGIOUS LIFE

Realizing the great advantage of training the heart as well as the head and hands of its young men and women, thus awakening and quickening their sense of responsibility to themselves and others, Kentucky State College provided opportunities for religious expressions. The mid-week religious services and the Sunday morning worship were held on a voluntary and non-denominational basis.

Cultural Events

THE LOUISVILLE ORCHESTRA . . . is in its third decade as a major musical force in Kentucky. Under the baton of Robert Whitney, the Orchestra enjoys national and international fame.

ROBERT WHITNEY . . . Conductor of the Louisville Orchestra.

Our ALMA MATER provided an opportunity for students to see and hear first-rate artists of the nation as they were presented on the cultural program for the season. Heading the list was the Helen Hayes Repertory Group which included Peter Murphy, Edward Zimmermann, Jack Manning, Richard Herd, and Katherine Lind. The Louisville Orchestra, under the baton of the brilliant Robert Whitney, gave a sterling performance for faculty, staff, and students. Louis E. Lomax, the noted author, lecturer, and television personality, was a hit.

The Kentucky State College players guild provided the students with the opportunity to perform before an enthusiastic audience. Of special interest was the production of "Outward Bound." This and other productions enabled students to gain experiences in costume design, stage design and other creative arts connected with the theater.

THE DANCE

The principles which shaped modern dance of earlier periods were largely borrowed from other art forms . . . particularly from music. Modern dance of the space age seeks new principles of choreographic form that are innate to movement and that will evolve as the dancer is given increasing freedom to explore untried forms of expression. The Modern Dance Group of Kentucky State College has tried to express this freedom through presentations of the following dances: "The Work Song," "The Shadow Dance," "Yolanda Goes Modern," and "Reuben and Rachel."

FOOTBALL SQUAD

The 1964 Thorobreds had one of the most successful seasons in recent years. Coach Whedbee, with the able assistance of coaches Bates and Mitchell, developed a very powerful team. Despite small margin losses to Marshall, Lincoln and Tennessee State, the Thorobreds showed strong determination and a winning spirit.

In Memoriam

JEAN BEVERLY DRAKE

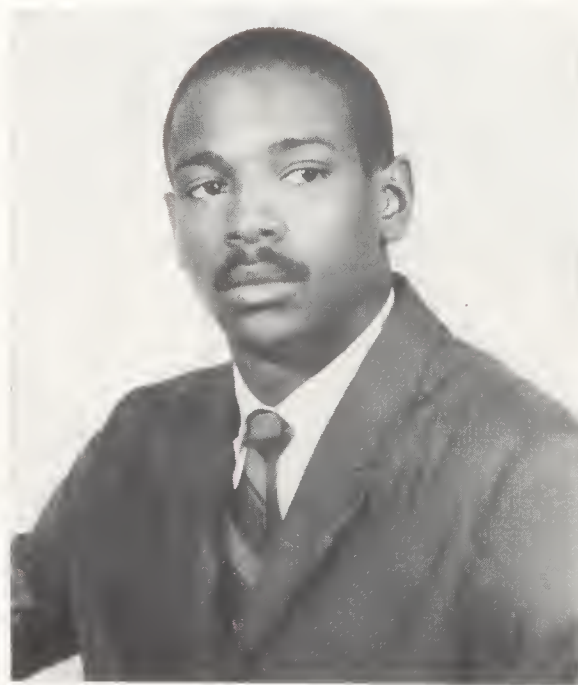

September 28, 1942 to December 10, 1964

*Because I could not stop for Death,
He kindly stopped for me
The carriage held but just ourselves
And immortality.*

—EMILY DICKINSON

*But should my voice fade in your ears,
and my love vanish in your memory,
then
I will come again,
And with a richer heart and lips more
Yielding to the spirit will I speak.*

—KAHLIL GIBRAN

JAMES ARTHUR BARLOW

May 13, 1913 to December 10, 1964

PATRICIA ANN BUCKNER

July 25, 1941 to December 10, 1964

*I was ever a fighter, so . . . one fight more,
The best and the last!
I would hate that death bandaged my eyes, and forebore,
And bade me past.*
